Bids for Construction of Coshocton-Mt. Vernon Road Asked by State

Will Widen Road to 16 Feet from Nellie to Knox-co; Cost, $55,000

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the director of highways and public works, division of highways, at Columbus until two o'clock p. m., Friday, April 11, 1824, for the improvement of Section "D" of the Mt. Vernon-Coshocton road, Number 339, in New Castle-tp, by grading the roadway, constructing drainage structures, and paving with gravel, it was announced Monday.

The road, which is between Nellie an the Knox-co line, is to have a width of 26 feet—16 feet of gravel and 5-foot berms. It will be improved for a distance of over three miles, and must be completed by October 15, 1924.

The estimated cost of improving is $55,084.32, half of which will be born by the county, and half by the state.

N. PHILA. MAN IS KILLED IN CRASH; CAR SPEEDS ON

DOVER, O., March 24—Clyde Kail, 22, of New Philadelphia, was instantly killed and three others injured in an auto accident four miles east of this city late Saturday night.

The injured, all of New Philadelphia, were Walter Hitler, Raymond Mulhauser and John Barry.

Kail and his companions were driving toward Canton on the Canton-Dover road when a large touring car, said by one of the injured men to be running at a terrific rate of speed, crashed into the Ford in which the New Philadelphia men were riding.

The car was forced from the road by the collision and turned over several times. When the three members of the party finally extricated themselves from the wreckage they found Kail unconscious. He was taken from under the machine and carried to the roadside and they discovered he was dead.

An ambulance was called from the Lewis undertaking establishment at Dover and the injured were taken to that city, where their wounds were dressed.

Examination of Kail's body disclosed his neck had been broken and a physician declared death had been instantaneous.

The deceased is survived by his widow and one child.

Local authorities are making an attempt to learn the identity of the driver of the machine which it is claimed was responsible for the fatal accident. The machine did not stop after the crash but continued on its way to Dover.

WILL IMPROVE CEMETERY SOON

Work May Be Begun on April 1; Ass's Needs About $4,000 More

The Oak Ridge Cemetery Association, it was announced Monday, is planning to undertake the contemplated improvement of that cemetery April 1.

With this in view the campaign to raise $10,000 to cover the cost of the improvements will be taken up with renewed vigor. To date about $6,000 has been raised. The amount asked for, an officer of the association pointed out, is comparatively small. It will be spent largely on the improvement of the drives within the cemetery.

The need for the improvement was emphasized Monday when Mrs. James Hogan an officer of the association, called attention to the poor condition of the cemetery drives. They were soft and amost wholly unfit for use. The association plans to remedy this condition by covering the drives with crushed limestone.

The agreement on the increase was reached at a series of conferences thruout the districts traversed by the roads.

The roads effected are: New York Central and 15 subsidiaries, including the Michigan Central, Big Four and Boston & Albany; the Baltimore & Ohio; the Lehigh Valley and the Southern Railroad and 11 Subsidiaries.

GROCER AT ADAMS MILLS DIES FROM HEART FAILURE

T. A. Mills, aged 63, grocer of Adams Mills, was claimed by death Sunday morning at 10 o'clock following an attack of heart trouble at his home.

He had been in usual good health until a few hours before his death. Mr. Mills had spent practically his entire life in Adams Mills.

For the past 44 years he had conducted a grocery store in that village. He was united in marriage with Miss Emma Fortune, May 25, 1882. She preceded him to the grave three years ago.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge at Dresden and also affiliated with the Presbyterian church in Adams Mills for many years.

There are surviving two children. They are John Mills of Coshocton and Mrs. Bruce Clark, of the late residence.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late residence in charge of the Rev. Gregg, of the Adams Mills Presbyterian church. Burial will be made in Adams Mills cemetery.

TAKE-OFF IN GREAT 'ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIGHT.

The above is a remarkable view of the take-off of the three U. S. Army air cruisers at Clover Field, Santa Monica, Cal., on the first leg of their epoch-making flight around the world. The fourth ship in the squadron joined these three at Seattle, where pontoons replaced landing wheels for the flight over Alaska d on toward Japan.

BAD ROADS NEARLY ISOLATE COSHOCTON; OUTLET TO EAST ALONE IN GOOD CONDITION

This is the time of the year to get down to the real "bedrock" of Coshocton-co's road system.

The main topic of conversation among motorists in or out of Coshocton, these days is the condition of this county's roads. From practically every community in the county come tales of "impassable roads."

In most of the outlying townships traffic by auto has been discontinued for the time being. In a recent funeral procession of automobiles, which went quite a distance from Coshocton into the country, few cars in addition to the motor hearse, it is said, made the trip without getting "stuck." At a Coshocton-co funeral last week a horse-drawn hearse created almost as much comment as a motor hearse would have, 20 years ago.

The only safe, sure and speedy way to negotiate Coshocton-co now is on horse-back.

A number of young people from a Coshocton-co village who put on a play at a neighboring village a few nights ago all went on horseback, even the girls.

Even in the sections of the inter-county highways the annual "wall" still goes up. For, in fact, only in one direction can travelers get out of the county from Coshocton on a year-around good road—to the east thru West Lafayette to Newcomerstown in the vicinities of the other three direct inter-county routes out of the county from Coshocton the road question still is a thorn in the side of the citizens.

YOUNG COSHOCTON GIRL IS ARRESTED IN UHRICHSVILLE

Will Be Given Hearing on Misconduct Charge in Probate Court

Eliza Marlatt, young Coshocton girl, was picked up by Uhrichsville authorities Sunday evening at the order of local police, was placed in the jail there and later was brot to Coshocton where she was placed in the county jail.

She is charged with improper conduct.

Miss Marlatt some time ago was committed to the girls' institution at Delaware, Ohio, and is now out on probation, officials here say.

When arrested the girl is reported to have been in the company of two young men. It is said the three had just returned to Uhrichsville after bringing another local girl to her home here.

Miss Marlatt will probably have a hearing before Probate Judge Milo C. Ely late today.

U. S. STEAMER AGROUND OFF COAST OF FLA.

KEY WEST, Fla., March 24.—Two tug boats and a coast guard cutter this morning were rushing to the assistance of the shipping board steamship Monroe, reported aground on the Pacific reef.

It was said in local shipping circles that a number of passengers are on board the vessel in addition to a heavy cargo of freight.

BOYS RANSACK BUREAU WHILE FAMILY IS AWAY

While all the members of the family were away from home, two boys entered the residence of James Kinney on West Walnut-st Sunday afternoon.

When his son, James, entered the house, he saw the boys run out the back and down an alley.

One of the bureau drawers was open, and a small amount of change was taken from a purse owned by Mr. Kinney's daughter, Mamie.

As the theft was a small one it was not reported to the police.

SAMPSON FINED $40 FOR INTOXICATION

For the second time in the past month Thomas Sampson, Coshocton, was arrested Sunday evening for intoxication. Monday morning at the hearing before Mayor Harry B. Heaton, Sampson pleaded guilty and was fined $40 and costs.

He was still in the city prison Monday afternoon waiting till arrangements could be made to pay his fine.

His fine several weeks ago was considerably smaller than the one assessed Monday.

IRA WILLCOX DIES SUN. AT DRESDEN

Friends in this city received the news Monday of the death of Ira Willcox, Dresden, formerly of this county, who died at his home Sunday from a complication of diseases.

He had been a resident of Dresden for years. Before he became a resident of Dresden he was employed as a blacksmith at Wills Creek. He entered the hotel business in Dresden in 1889.

Mr Willcox operated a hotel and restaurant from 1889 until 1918 in Dresden. Later he purchased a grocery store and had been in that business until the time of his death.

He was born in Coshocton-co, near Marquand Mills, April 21, 1852. He was married twice. He was first married to Josephine Smith, who preceded him to the grave after they had only been married four years. To this union was born one child, Nora Willcox, who lives in Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Willcox later married Miss Ella Knoff, of Wills Creek. To this union were born Mrs. George Cannon, of Freeport, Ill., Mrs. Ernest Stradley, of Zanesville and Wayne Willcox, of the late residence. One daughter, Flov, died about 13 years ago.

No funeral arrangements had been made late Monday.

WIFE AND SON OF W. J. BAHMER DIE FEW HOURS APART

Pneumonia Causes Death of Both at Home in Pittsburgh Yesterday

Striking twice within a few hours, death claimed Mrs. Margaret Watts Bahmer, wife of W. J. Bahmer, newspaperman, formerly of this city and his son, William Voorhees Bahmer, aged 27, in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Pneumonia caused both of their deaths Sunday morning, the stepmother dying at 3 a. m. and the son at 6:50 a. m. The father and husband is employed on the Pittsburgh Post as dramatic editor.

William V. Bahmer was employed on the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph at the time of his death.

He was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. on March 12, 1897. His mother was formerly Marguerite Voorhees, of Coshocton. She preceded the son to the grave 20 years ago. Later Mr. Bahmer was re-married to Mrs. Margaret Trainor.

When William was an infant Mr. and Mrs. Bahmer moved to this city from Brooklyn.

He was educated in the Coshocton public schools and in Pittsburgh. After leaving Allegheny high school he entered newspaper work, being employed on the Tri-

DAUGHERTY PROBE SUSPENDED TODAY; WHEELER IS ILL

WASHINGTON, March 24—With a score of witnesses sitting on the side line awaiting their opportunity to testify to additional stories of intrigue and corruption in Washington life, the Daugherty investigation suffered a temporary lapse today.

It was announced that owing to the illness of Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, the chief prosecutor of the case against Attorney General Daugherty and the department of justice, the hearing today would be suspended.

SECRETARY WILBUR TAKES UP HIS WORK

WASHINGTON, March 24—Curtis D. Wilbur of California took the oath as secretary of the navy at the capital today and began his duties as head of the navy department.

Mr. Wilbur was sworn in by Chief Justice Taft at the White House and went from there directly to the navy department to assume his new duties.

MARX VOICES APPEAL AGAINST RESISTANCE TO VERSAILLES PACT

ELBERFELD, Germany, March 24—Chancellor Marx opened the German political campaign today with a speech at a Centrist mass meeting warning Germans against armed resistance against the Versailles treaty.

Herr Marx characterized as a "lie" any accusation that Germany was responsible for the war.

"Our policy," said the chancellor, "should be cool reasoning and common sense. That is better than radicalism of either right or left which only helps Poincare."

Sinclair is Cited for Contempt in Effort to Force Him to Testify

Drastic Move Made by Investigators; Case to Go to Supreme Court

By Kenneth Clark

WASHINGTON, Mar. 24—Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire owner of the Teapot Dome oil lease this afternoon was formally cited to the senate for contempt for refusing to answer questions propounded by the senate public lands committee in investigating the leases of Ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

It was the first time in years that a senate committee had chosen such drastic means to require a witness to testify and the senate sat in profound silence as Senator Ladd, Republican of North Dakota, chairman of the investigating committee, read the committee's citation.

When Ladd had concluded, Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, the chief prosecutor in the oil probe recommended to the senate than Sinclair be certified for contempt to the United States attorney for the District of Columbia and held for action by a federal grand jury.

This will throw the case into the District of Columbia supreme court, where the issue of wether or not Sinclair can be compelled to testify will be fought out.

TAGS TO COST 25 PCT. LESS

First Reduction Coming April 1; No Licenses to Be Sold Before That

The April reduction in auto tags, the first cut of the year, will be sweet music in the ears of those who have put their orders in for May 1 delivery of cars.

A 25 percent reduction in the price of automobile licenses for 1924 goes into effect Tuesday, April 1, but not until that date will any be sold at the reduced price.

Thad H. Brown, secretary of state said last Saturday that the sale of auto tags for the first three months of the year was by far the largest in the history of the state. He pointed out the fact that scores of municipalities have been enabled to start their street repair work earlier than usual, following the transfer of these funds into the state treasury.

The secretary of state also said that the total receipts from the sale of these licenses this year will be in excess of $10,000,000 adding that their share of the money would be sent to all political subdivisions just as soon as it could be apportioned.

The second cut in the original price of 1924 tags will come on July 1 and the last cut will be made on October 1.

COMPENSATION FOR CARD DEPUTIES IS MOOTED QUESTION

COLUMBUS, March 24.—Claims now pending before the state industrial commission for awards because of injuries sustained by "card men" during dry law enforcement raids, give rise to perplexing questions, state officials declared today.

One question is whether these "card men," ruled by Attorney General Crabbe to have been employed without legal authority, are entitled to compensation at all under the Ohio workmen's compensation act. Should the awards be allowed in these claims, the commission's decision would be in direct opposition to the Attorney General's ruling; should they be disallowed, an appeal on the record of the case may be taken to the common pleas court, according to Thomas J. Duffy, chairman the industrial commission.

Attorney General Crabbe is counsel for the industrial commission. In the event of the allowance of the claims, he is obliged to let the rest, or take it to the courts.

DONAHEY TO APPOINT UNIVERSITY TRUSTEE

COLUMBUS, March 24—Governor Donahey announced today that a successor to the late Dr. Thomas C. Mendenhall, trustee of Ohio State University who died at Ravenna Saturday, will be named at an early date. Some time ago the chief executive indicated that a woman would be named to fill the next vacancy on the O. S. U. board of trustees.

The names of Miss Edith Campbell, Cincinnati, prominent in educational work, and Mrs. Guy Mallon Cincinnati club woman whose husband was formerly a member of the board, have been mentioned for the place.

DAUGHTER NAMED

The daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Grover Randles, Hickory-st at the City hospital, Saturday evening, has been named, Adeline Jean.

DAUGHERTY'S BANK IS REQUESTED TO GIVE UP RECORDS

WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, O., March 24—Records of the Commercial Bank of Washington Courthouse, of which M. S. Daugherty, brother of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, is president, have been subpoenaed by the Wheeler Brookhart senate committee. It was learned here today.

Previously the senate had subpoenaed the reports of the Midland Bank, of which Daugherty, also, is president.

Daugherty here today indicated that he would absolutely refuse to permit the records to go to Washington. He stated that he was willing that any pertinent records dealings with alleged bank transactions of principals in the senate probe should be available to the senate committee but was unwilling that all records should be thrown open.

Daugherty expects to leave for Washington sometime today.

Three operatives employed thru the agency of Frank A. Vanderlip, are at work here. It was learned today seeking evidence to corraborate the story told by Mrs. Roxie Stinson to the senate committee regarding alleged happenings at the "shack", the cottage near here where the attorney general and Jesse W. Smith used to spend week ends.

MRS. J. A. HALL IS CALLED BY DEATH

ception to the custom some shippers have, he stated, in gloating over the premium they get for their stock over the prices received by their neighbors, he said. "The true measure of co-operation, after all, is what the fellow outside gets."

"The greatest problem of the livestock farmer today," said Irwin Porteus, "is, I believe, getting educated to market demand." Mr. Porteus stated that the market selling prices of hogs depend mainly upon their weight, but that sheep and cattle are sold largely on their quality.

E. C. Darling, in a few brief remarks, emphasized a belief on his part that there is a rapidly growing sentiment among Coshocton-co farmers toward co-operative livestock shipping; and that there is no more hopeful premonition of better days for the farmer than the apparent quest for education in matters of co-operative marketing.

The grading of the livestock brot in by the farmers, Saturday, by Mr. Bridenbaugh and Mr. Stevens, a sheep and calf salesman from the Pittsburgh co-operative commission firm, was perhaps the most interesting feature of the demonstration.

The importance of flesh on all classes of animals was emphasized by both men in culling the pens. They stated that the ideal weight for calves is from 150 to 180 pounds, and for lambs, 75 pounds. Great discrimination is held, they said, against thin and over-age calves, and against wrinkly and heavy-hided sheep.

W. LAFAYETTE PLAYS LOCAL TEAM MONDAY

West Lafayette Independent basketers and Coshocton Independents will meet on the Central gym floor Monday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Manager W. H. Fairall of the West Lafayette lads asserted Saturday that his tossers felt confident of victory for the simple reason that they have disposed of as many difficult teams as Coshocton has this season.

"We have won from such teams as Canton, Uhrichsville, Frazeysburg and an aggregation from Ohio State University," Manager Fairall said Saturday.

Fairall said many tickets to this game had been sold to many fans in West Lafayette. Approximately 100 from West Lafayette have promised to attend this game, it is understood.

West Lafayette has won 8 out of 11 games played this season. The Lafayette-tp boys have piled up a better record than the locals this season.

Here are the boys who will compose each team: West Lafayette, Hiser, Shaw, Naragon, Lapp and McCleary; Coshocton, Calhoun, Behen, Bretzius, Thornsley, Wagner, Senter, Trottman and Hunt.

he urged farmers to breed only purebred animals, that uniformly and consequent satisfactory sales may be attained. "First," said he, "get the right kind of stock, then learn the grades that are in demand in the market, and lastly, when you have produced the grades that are in most demand, learn to put your stock on the market when there is the greatest demand for that class of stuff."

L. C. Bridenbaugh discussed briefly methods of handling livestock at the Pittsburgh co-operative commission house. He stated that shipments to the co-operative firm this week have exceeded the shipments to any other Pittsburgh commission house by 24 decks, and that every week since its organization his firm has been among the first two or three in number of shipments.

George Stonebraker, in opening the demonstration, said that in his opinion, "this work of co-operation" begins essentially right at home; and because of that belief this demonstration was arranged for the purpose of educating the farmer to grade his stock before shipping that he may see the real benefits of co-operative marketing.

County Agent Musgrove expressed a belief on his part that the farmer today is following the stock farther from the farm than ever before as the result of co-operative effort. Taking ...

ing up mysteries that have baffled authorities.

They told of breaking into a cottage at Lake Park, the Loos home on Chestnut-st, the Coshocton Produce Company, the Coshocton Creamery, the J. P. Alsman home on South Third-st, the Guy Tarney home, Cox meat market, the Orr home at Warsaw and the Strong store of that village, the Oanger grocery, Tom O'Donnell's pool room, Main-st, Stevenson's grocery, Third-st, and several others.

Revolvers were taken from one or two of the boys. Charts found in the pockets of some of the boys' clothes showed the gear shift of a number of the most popular automobiles, indicating that study was being made in preparation for thievery on a larger scale.

No disposition of any of the cases has yet been made.

Plenty of Chest Room

No longer need you pay custom shirt makers fancy prices to get shirts that fit, without being too full.

A shirt should fit snug over the chest and waist—but have fullness at the armholes so that you will not "feel shirt bound." Every inch of material beyond that is "excess" and makes "bunchiness" under your belt.

That's only one of the points which we match to insure comfort in the shirts you buy here.

LAWRENCE'S LETTER

COPYRIGHT, 1924, BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Ku Klux Klan Not a Factor in McAdoo Landslide, Says His Campaign Manager

WASHINGTON, March 24. — David Ladd Rockwell, campaign manager for William Gibbs McAdoo, said today that it was absurd to attribute the McAdoo landslide in Georgia to the influence of the Ku Klux Klan.

"Mr. McAdoo's victory was so overwhelming" he declared, "that no single element brot it about. As for the Ku Klux Klan the position of Mr. McAdoo, was not in doubt. A heckler in the crowd at Macon, Ga., asked Mr. McAdoo what his attitude was toward the Ku Klux Klan. There were cries of 'put him out' but Mr. McAdoo insisted that nobody should be put out of any of his meetings simply for asking a question.

"He then proceeded to make answer: 'I stand four square with respect to this and every other order on the immutable guarantee of liberty contained in the first amendment of the constitution of the United States, that is for the freedom of religious worship, freedom of speech, freedom of the press an dthe right of peaceful assembly. He pointed out that the spirit of America was against religious intolerance, etc."

"'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the exercise thereof.' He pointed out that the spirit of America was against religious intolerance. His answer was met with an outburst of cheers and applause.

"While we were confident of a victory in Georgia we had no idea that it would be a landslide. We recall that Woodrow Wilson stumped the state in 1912 but that Underwood carried it. The victory over Underwood today is significant of the way the south feels about McAdoo."

The campaign manager was in high spirits declaring that the organization for McAdoo was growing so strong that it would without doubt be able to control the convention.

"The dispatches from Missouri after the recent primary," he added "did not give a clear picure of what happened there. We shall have a majority of the delegates at the Democratic state convention which is to be held shortly."

The convention will be an interesting battle for while Senator Reed failed to carry the primary, his friends will be active in his behalf in the hope of preventing Missouri from endorsing McAdoo. The fight, on the other hand for McAdoo, is largely anti-Reed and there are many former Wilson men in Missouri who are not especially interested in seeing McAdoo nominated but who will join forces with the McAdoo men to bring about the repudiation of Senator Reed who besides his breaks with the Wilson administration is now charged with having dragged McAdoo into the oil controversy without justification. Mr. Rockwell is having a series of conferences here with leading Democrats. He is an active person who knows pre-convention politics backwards and forwards. Four years ago he was the man who lined up so many states for James M. Cox of Ohio that he assisted materially in the final victory then. Mr. Rockwell realizes that the charge of K. K. K. influence is being made against Mr. McAdoo, but he calls it absurd.

"Look at Illinois," he remarked, "where William O'Connell, a leading Catholic is managing the McAdoo campaign. Also in Wisconsin, the candidate for delegate-at-large is Tom Fleming, a Catholic. Would these men take so prominent a part in the McAdoo campaign if they were not satisfied that the man they were working for is free from religious prejudice?"

The victory in Georgia is undoubtedly a turning point in the whole McAdoo campaign. It meant a great deal to his candidacy for it was the first southern primary after the recent revelations that he had accepted fees from corporations as an attorney after leaving public office. Had Georgia turned McAdoo down it would have been the end of his candidacy. Conversely those who have been on the fence now are taking renewed intrest in the campaign. The next fight is in South Dakota where the Hearst influence is behind the protest ticket. In Iowa there is a bitter fight. Wilbur Marsh who is one of the western allies of Charles F. Murphy, George Brennan and the so-called organization leaders of the Democratic party is a candidate for national committeeman and is being fought by Clyde Herring a McAdoo man, who recently ran for governor. The outcome is being awaited with peculiar interest by Democratic politicians for if McAdoo can get control of the Iowa delegation it will help him in neighboring states of the west.

Altogether the McAdoo campaign shows no evidence of diminishing energy but on the contrary, seems to have taken on a new lease of life since the victory in Georgia.

MAN OF DANCING FAME AT MYSTIC

You all have seen dancers some time or other but when Ralph D. Tompkins, song writer and onelegdancer comes to the Mystic Theatre today and all week he will bring something new and different.

Mr. Tompkins who has only one leg is a marvel in his line. At the age of four years he lost his right limb at the knee, and unlike most men of his kind did not wait until some one helped him up in the world but went after a way to earn his own living without sympathy. One would not believe a man on one foot could kick nine feet in the air but nevertheless that is what he will do during his stay here.

The skill and ease with which he handles himself would make any one wonder how it is done, and during one of his stunts he dances with his remaining foot free from the floor he goes through some movements that are decidely unorthodox.

Ralph D. Tompkins will give a kiddies surprise party to all the school children Wednesday. Mr. Tompkins not only gives a dancing act that is wonderful, but at the same time will give a lecture to all, that will show what should be done by each and every child in the way of protecting themselves from having some serious accident. This party will not alone be a lecture but a real day of enjoyment for the kiddies, as well as an educational feature, and at the same time Mr. Tompkins will give every boy and girl a little present of some kind.

Ten Degrees Below Zero —on the 4th of July!

NO, this isn't a "forecast". But if—through any freakish whim of Mother Nature—the balmy breezes of midsummer should suddenly be driven out by icy blasts—your motor would never sense the change—if you use

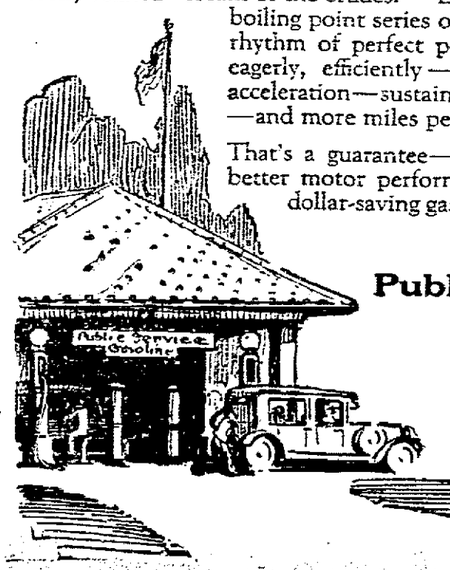

Public Service Straight Run Gasoline

(Excels U.S.Navy Specifications)

January or July—the quality of this "cream grade" gasoline never varies. Every drop—every day in the year—is packed with life and power. A rising thermometer is no valid excuse for a lowering of motor fuel quality. Because—easy starting, under all weather conditions, is only one of several vitally important requisites. "Heavy", sluggish gasoline with a haphazard, hit-or-miss grouping of boiling points is a trouble-breeder for any motor. Excessive carbon deposits—"heavy ends" that work past the pistons and thin the crank-case oil—lessened mileage—increased repairs—these are the results that follow the use of ordinary "gas" which "seems to work all right in summer!"

Note this:—Public Service is pure, clean, straight-run gasoline—literally the perfectly refined "cream of the crudes." Every drop goes into power—because the boiling point series of Public Service Gasoline is an unbroken rhythm of perfect power steps. Every atom works willingly, eagerly, efficiently—winter or summer—giving you perfect acceleration—sustained power—far better motor performance—and more miles per gallon!

That's a guarantee—not a careless claim! Greater mileage—better motor performance—the whole year 'round! And this dollar-saving gasoline costs only one cent more per gallon!

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia.)

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

"MY CHINA DOLL," TUNEFUL AND GAY

The brilliant new musical fantasy, "My China Doll," coming to the Sixth St. Theatre omorrow Night, under the management of LeComte and Flesher, is a superb extravaganza: a wondrous spectacle presented in two acts and eight scenes that excells all previous achievement by way of originality. This production is another creation by Charles George, the author of "Listen To Me," "Go Easy Mabel" and other attractions under the same management.

The charming story, possessing an appealing theme enriched with comedy, the poetic lyrics, and lilting melodies, staged under the personal direction of the author, denotes another splendid achievement by this renowned writer.

Barbara Bronell, who only recently returned from her tour of the Orient with Julian Eltinge and company and who scored such a remrakable success with "Listen To Me" last season, is starring in this new vehicle. This famous dancer is ably supported by a Metropolitan company, including Bessie Delmore, Laura Baer, Robert Wynne Jones, Billy Murphy, Bertram Coitra, Tom Crowley, George Ellis and others with a corps de ballet of wonderful dancers.

GREATEST ENTERTAINMENT IN MINSTRELSY OFFERED BY GEORGIA SMART SET MINSTRELS FOR $1.00, BEST SEATS.

Offering what is without out a doubt the greatest entertainment ever presented to the theatre-going public at the price of admission charged, The Famous Georgia Smart Set Minstrels comes to the Sixth St. Theatre, Thursday, March 27th. One Dollar and One Dollar only and no higher will be the price of the best seats.

Fifty people are carried, including the best and cream of the colored talent and big double show, two in one. The Georgia Minstrels and The Popular Smart will be seen for the one price. Never before has such an offering been given the public at these prices and it means capacity business on these prices to operate such a large company and that is what this attraction is doing everywhere this season, so secure your seats well in advance.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so natuarlly and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

WIFE ATTEMPTS TO AID HUSBAND THRU CRIME; IS ARRESTED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Mach 24—"It was because Joseph didn't make enough money" sobbed pretty Mrs. Joseph Battles, 23, captured after holding up a jewelry store here today.

Mrs. Battles, well dressed, was arrested in the rest room of a down town department store, after holding a police officer at bay with the gun she used in the hold-up.

The gentle entreaties of the policeman finally overcame Mrs. Battles' determination to escape. Lowering the gun she allowed herself to be taken to the jail.

The $25 taken in the hold-up was lost in the woman's attempt to escape.

Apparatus for quickly unloading logs from railroad cars has been invented that is operated by compressed air from a locomotive.

Timely Tips and Suggestions on the Latest Diagrams and Hook-Ups—Simplified

FLEWELLING "FLIVVER" CIRCUIT

THE FLEWELLING RECEIVER.

A Circuit That Will Operate a Loudspeaker on One Tube Without An Aerial.

By CARLTON E. BUTLER, Radio Engineer.

If you are of a retiring disposition do not attempt to construct the Flewelling receiver as your near neighbors who own radio sets are apt to form a vigilance committee for the suppression of disturbing noises and heap strong words upon your head.

As one of the faults of all receivers of the super-regenerative type the Flewelling is a powerful oscillator and radiates considerable energy into the antennae that is very annoying to nearby listeners.

CIRCUIT PECULIAR

There are several points in regard to this hookup that are unlike the usual run of circuits and should be touched upon. Often better reception is possible while using the aerial alone and operating the set without a ground, or using the ground without the aerial.

Another peculiar feature is the tuning qualities of the circuit. The reception of the set during tuning is beset with whistles and shrieks which are very annoying at first, but without which the receiver is not operating properly. At first one is apt to think that each whistle indicates the presence of a station but this is not so. This is due to the circuit characteristics and must be present in the circuit.

AMPLIFICATION DIFFICULT

A very odd feature of the circuit is the fact that it is almost impossible to add additional stages of audio frequency amplification. Only once out of numerous attempts have I succeeded in adding amplification to the circuit. At this time the signals from a local broadcasting station came in so loud that a single Baldwin unit attached to a phonograph horn could be heard a hundred yards away, the loudspeaker being located inside of a cottage with the doors and windows closed.

The hookup was only temporary and was dismantled after a few hours use. The next evening a party of friends were called in to listen to the remarkable results. The apparatus was reassembled but all attempts to duplicate the previous evenings performance resulted in failure altho the same identical parts and units were used.

This may have been due to the contrariness of fate that seems to delight in putting spells in a radio set whenever its proud owner tries to show off its good qualities, but subsequent trials have not been satisfactory.

ONE TUBE OPERATES LOUD SPEAKER.

The volume from a single tube Flewelling hookup should operate a loudspeaker successfully if properly constructed and nicely adjusted plus the element of good luck in obtaining parts that are efficient, with low losses and the correct value for the circut.

A good variable grid leak is most important. At the same time a good variable grid leak is almost impossible to obtain. The popularity of the Flewelling circuit has done much to bring out a good grid leak on the market. A great many are almost useless after a few weeks operation, and a great many others do not measure up to standard on account of noisiness or rough adjustment.

APPARATUS REQUIRED

Returning to the good points of the circuit, very little apparatus is required, making the circuit very inexpensive to construct. With the exception of three fixed condensers all of the apparatus for this hookup can be used in constructing other circuits if this attempt is unsuccessful or you do not like the operation of the circuit.

To build the set you will need the following apparatus: The two inductances shown in the picture diagram are a 50 and a 75 honeycomb coil. The variable condenser used is a 43 plate variable type with a vernier. The grid leak and condenser should be of .00025 M. F. capacity with a vernier leak of highest quality. The three condensers shown in the picture diagram grouped close together are each of .006 M. F. capacity. The grid leak shown in conjunction with the condensers is of the fixed type of two or three megohms. This can be of the variable type if you desire.

A socket, rheostat and binding posts are necessary to complete the circuit together with batteries. The set works best when using a hard amplifying tube such as the UV201 and the UV201A with from 45 to 100 volts of B battery.

HOW TO TUNE THE "SPLIT VARIOMETER" CIRCUIT.

Rotar of Variometer Controls Volume.

By CARLTON E. BUTLER, Radio Engineer.

The circuit described yesterday is a very easy one to tune yet a brief description of the variable elements of the set will give you a better understanding of the action of each control. This should enable you to accomplish much more in the tuning of the circuit than will be possible if you rely solely on the trial and error method of tuning your set.

The stator of the variometer in this circuit acts as the tuning inductance and is, of course, not provided with taps or other means of varying the value of the inductance. The 23 plate variable condenser is in series with the stator of the variometer and the antennae circuit and is the means of tuning the circuit in resonance with the incoming signals.

It may be found that the stator of the variometer does not contain enough inductance to reach some of the higher wavelengths and it may be necessary to connect the condenser across the inductance. In this case the aerial binding post is connected to one side of the variable condenser and one side of the stator winding. The ground binding post is then connected to the other connection of the variable condenser and the other terminal of the inductance.

To tune in the circuit set the rotor about halfway in and turn the detector rheostat on until a hissing noise is heard in the phones or until a click can be heard in the phones by touching the grid terminal of the tube socket with your finger. Slowly move the variable condenser over the scale until a signal is heard.

Tune the signal in as loud as possible with the condenser and then move the rotor of the variometer until the volume of the ———— is satisfactory or until the note becomes mushy or distorted. Just below this point is the proper point to receive broadcasting programs. Turn back the detector rheostat as far as possible and still retain a signal of satisfactory volume. It is necessary to vary the setting of the condenser lightly after the tickler is adjusted.

HOW TO OPERATE A WAVETRAP

Expert Describes How to Tune Out Interference With Filter

By CARLTON E. BUTLER, Radio Engineer.

The two wavetraps described in the previous article are of the series type as they are in series with the aerial and the receiver. With all series of wavetraps you will find that a change in the setting of the variable condenser of the filter will slightly change the tuning of the receiver.

Tuning of a filter or a wavetrap is directly opposite to that of operating a receiver, indee dour purpose is directly opposite. With the receiver we aim to tune in a station and we find that it comes in on one place on the tuning dial or dials. With the filter we try to eliminate a station and we find that we can hear it on all points of the variable condenser dial except one. That is the spot we are seeking.

Tune in the interfering station as loudly as possible with your receiver, in the meanwhile shortcircuiting the wavetrap out by means of the shorting switch. When the station is tuned in open the switch and vary the variable condenser dial until a point is reached where the signal vanishes or becomes as low as possible. Now tune in the receiver to the station you desire to listen to and you will find that the interference from the undesired station is reduced considerably or else entirely eliminated.

Another method of tuning the wavetrap is to adjust the receiver to the desired station and vary the setting of the filter condenser until the interference is eliminated. With this method you will find that the receiver will need to be returned again as the change in the wavetrap setting also changes the tuning of the aerial circuit somewhat.

After the wavetrap is once adjusted to cut out undesirable signals from a certain station no further adjustments to it will be necessary and tuning of the receiver will not affect it. A station once cut out will remain so as long as the setting of the wavetrap is not changed.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure and ask for "Mulsified" cocoanut oil shampoo.

MAN MADE "YOUNG" AT 84 TELLS HOW HE REGAINED VIGOR

Another remarkable report of being made "young" without a gland operation comes from J. L. Rowell, 84, of Waw City, Okla.

"It has simply been wonderful" says Mr. Rowell. "My evesight is clearer and my muscles feel supple. I walk with a firm, springy step and now can do a man's work. I am enjoying a remarkable reinvigoration and restoration of gland and nerve activity, and I feel as young and vigorous as I did at 30. I have found a real 'fountain of youth.'"

Mr. Rowell says he "rejuvenated" himself in only ten days by taking the recently discovered korex compound in tablet form. Many others—young and old—make similar reports of their experience with this compound in cases of nerve weakness, lost vigor and premature age. In fact, letters praising korex are being received in such volume that full-strength $2 treatments are being offered on trial, under a money-back guarantee, by the Korex Company, 2857 Melton Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., American distributors of the compound. Any reader accepting this offer should enclose $2 or agree to pay $2 and postage on delivery. However, the purchase price will be refunded, upon request, to any user who reports within ten days that he is not satisfied.

OLD CEREMONY MARKS NAMING OF CARDINALS

ROME, March 24—Attended by pomp and ceremony almost as old as Christianity itself, Archbishop George W. Mundelein, of Chicago and Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes of New York were made Catholic cardinals today at a secret consistory at the Vatican.

The ceremonies will last until Thursday when there will be a public consistory at St. Peters cathedral.

Elevation of the two American prelates gives the United States four members of the cardinalate. The other princes of the church are Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, and Cardinal Daugherty, of Philadelphia.

The United States now holds fourth place in the list of nations represented in the sacred college.

In his allocution Pope Pios XI spoke of the imprisonment of Catholic clergymen in Russia and the fact that there are still populations suffering privation and hunger.

The secret consistory rites began at 10 o'clock. Cardinal designate Mundelein will receive the formal announcement of his elevation this evening. Cardinal Designate Hayes received his otification durin the morning.

AMERICAN SHIP IN CRASH WITH ENGLISH LINER

LONDON, March 24—Eight persons were reported killed, one steamship was sunk and another beached in a collision between the United States liner American Merchant and the Albion liner Mantua, off Thames Haven today.

The American Merchant was on her maiden voyage, bound for Tilbury, he was beached after the accident

The Mantua, crashed amidship, was sunk.

According to first reports only two members of the Mantua's crew were killed. A later dispatch from Gravesend to the Standard put the dead at eight. In addition several were injured.

The Albion line issued a statement this afternoon saying only one man was killed on board the Mantua, but that several other sailors were ijured.

SMITH'S DEATH WAS SUICIDE, CORONER TELLS SENATORS

WASHINGTON, March 24—An investigation was gotten under way today into the year old suicide of Jesse W. Smith, close friend and confidant of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty as a result of the veiled insinuations cropping out in the Daugherty investigations that Smith may have met with foul play.

J. Ramsey Nevitt, coroner of the District of Columbia who returned the verdict of suicide, probably will be called before the senate investigating committee it developed.

Smith was found dead on the bathroom floor of the apartment which he shared with Attorney General Daugherty at the Wardman Park hotel here last May. There was a bullet wound in the temple.

The sound of a shot was heard by Warren F. Martin, special assistant to the attorney general, in an adjoining apartment, and he rushed to find Smith, clad in a bathrobe, with his head in a waste-basket and a gun beside him. Attorney General Daugherty was absent, having spent the night at the white house.

"It appeared a plain case of suicied to me," said Dr. Nevitt today, in explaining why no autopsy was ever held. "There were no suspicious circumstances about the death, and I saw no reason for ordering an autopsy."

The testimony of Roxie Stinson Smith's divorced wife, that prior to his death, Smith had told her of his fears that "they are going to get me" has not changed his belief that Smith killed himself, Dr. Nevitt said. Mrs. Stinson commented particularly about the absence of powder stains on Smith's temple.

"That can be easily explained," said Dr. Nevitt, "Smith shot himself with an automatic of high calibre and the cartridge contained a white powder which completely explodes. The ordinary black powder does not completely explode and consequently leaves a mark.

"Smith was probably sitting when he shot himself. He fell over immediately his head striking a waste-basket. The automatic was near him. I made a very close study of the position of the body, the location of the gun, the entrance of the bullet into the left temple and its exit thru the right temple and the final lodging spot of the bullet in the floor. All this convinced me it was suicide."

At the time of Smith's death, various reasons were ascribed by his friends for his act, chief among them being ill health. He had had a serious operation a few months before.

FIGHT OVER RATES ON LONG DISTANCE CALLS IS CONTINUED

COLUMBUS, March 24.—The state utilities commission will hear further testimony today by the Ohio Bell telephone company concerning the proposed increase in long distance phone rates.

G. A. Kositsky, chief engineer of the company, W. G. Schneider, valuation engineer, and W. T. Anthony, general traffic engineer, are expected to show how operating expenses are kept at a minimum by the use of standardized equipment and by association with the American Telephone and Telegrapa Company.

It is upon these expenses that the new rates are based. Officials said the revenue will be increased by not more than $450,000 a year, with the average increase for each long distance message not more than 3 cents.

DISPUTE BREWING OVER PRECEDENCE OF TAX OR BONUS

WASHINGTON, March 24 — Soldiers' bonus or war ax reductions first?

A fight was brewing in the senate today to decide which of these measures is to be brot out of the finance committee and acted upon first.

On the basis of precedence, the tax reduction bill has the right of way over the bonus, but members of the senate committee want to rewrite the measure before the whole senate gets a chance at it, while they think the bonus bill can be reported out and acted on finally within a few days.

Senators like Borah, of Idaho however, maintain that there has been too much delay already in passing a tax reduction bill and they are insisting on prompt action, regardless of the fate of the bonus.

There were indications today that another effort would be made in the house to adopt a resolution authorizing a 25 per cent cut in 1923 income taxes, following the announcement that the administration through Secretary Mellon was still insisting on this legislation.

These efforts are not likely to prove successful in view of the fact that immediate tax reduction is provided for in the general revenue bill and the house does not want to take any step that might pave the way for the veto of this bill. The feeling prevails that President Coolidge would not hesitate to veto the tax bill if the separate resolution went thru congress.

"Use of the Air" for 20 Minutes Daily

Daily broadcasting of sport educational talks and features from New York City public schools thru an arrangement with one of the great radio corporations is considered by Superintendent Ettinger "a wonderful opportunity to bring the actual work of the school into closer relation with the home." At 2 o'clock every day the schools have extensive use of "the air" for 20 minutes. Entertainment offered by the schools includes talks on special aspects of education, music lessons, glees and other songs, music appreciation, orchestral music, recitations in reading, spelling, English, history, civics, geography, arithmetic, nature study, science, and exercises for special holidays. Each principal will submit a tentative program representative of his school.

HOLDING POTATOES FOR LATE PLANTING

The sprouting of seed potatoes is retarded by storing them in a light place or keeping them in cold storage where the temperature can be held below 40 degrees. In ordinary storage cellars, where the temperature rises in the spring, the tubers sprout excessively and become badly shriveled and are in poor condition for planting.

If stored in the light the sprouts are short and thick and the skin of the tubers becomes green and leathery. This is frequently called sunsprouting, but a light room is just as satisfactory as direct sunlight, says John Bushnell, potato specialist of the Ohio Experiment Station.

It is a good practice to move the seed potatoes from the cellar as soon as severe frosts are over and spread them in a thin layer on the barn loft or some similar place. This Mr Bushnell continues, is a most satisfactory way of handling seed for June planting and certified seed, which should never be left long in the sacks when received in the spring.

CRABBE TO PROBE DRY ENFORCEMENT

COLUMBUS, March 24. — Attorney General Crabbe's investigation of methods of prohibition enforcement and the conduct of magistrates' offices in Lucas-co began today with the departure of H. H. Griswold, special counsel on the attorney general's staff, for Toledo.

Attorney General Crabbe will join Griswold this afternoon and superintendent personally the start of the probe. Griswold is under instructions to begin work immediately upon his arrival in Toledo, and to examine properly the charges, made by Federal Judge Killits, Toledo, alleging blackmail, brutality and extortion in connection with the conduct of prohibition cases in magistrates' courts.

HOUSE TAKES SLAP AT THE SENATORS

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The traditional friendship between the senate and the house was badly cracked today when Representative Treadway, Republican of Massachusetts, introduced a resolution calling upon the house to rebuke Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas, for his speech of Saturday attacking Speaker Frederick H. Gillett.

The resolution characterized Senator Caraway's language as "improper, and a reflection upon the dignity of the house and its speaker," and provided for the notification of the senate so that "appropriate action" could be taken.

SQUEEDEE TO THE RESCUE OF DONALD AND DEE.

DONALD and Dee were brother and sister. They always lived in the great city, but one day their mama took them out to the country to visit Grandma Brown's place. The children were greatly excited and scampered over the farm.

The things that pleased them most were the dear little field-mice that scooted back and forth among the corn-stalks.

"Oh, dear, don't you wish you and I were tiny little—" began Dee. Just then a soft coughing interrupted her and Squeedee, the wee little elfin from Joyland, hopped down in front of the children.

"Be careful, think twice before you finish that wish," he laughed, merrily. "I'm not so sure that you would enjoy being a field-mouse."

"Oh, but they do seem to have such a gay time scampering around the corn field," said Dee. "I just love to watch them."

"Then you'll have to come under the shadow of this corn-stalk" laughed a soft tiny voice, "for that horrid old butcher-bird has his eye on my youngsters and if he sees you talking to us, he's just as liable to make a mistake and grab you up." Mama Field-Mouse with these words came out just far enough to let the children see her.

"Of course, we'll come in," laughed Squeedee, and he and Donald and Dee crawled under the corn-stalk. For Squeedee by his magic had made the children as tiny as the wee field-mice.

"Has old shrike been bothering your children again?" asked Squeedee. Then, turning to Donald and Dee, he showed them a funny-looking bird sitting on the top of a pole. This bird was a bit smaller than a robin, of a bluish-gray color with a great deal of black and white in his tail. His bill had a wicked hook on it that made Dee shiver and draw closer to Squeedee.

"Don't ever wish you were a Field-Mouse," said Mama Field-Mouse, "for our lives are in constant danger. Why that fellow yonder would snap us up and hang us on a thorn in a jiffy."

"Oh, the horrid thing!" exclaimed Donald. "I'll get my gun and chase him away this very day."

"But he does so much good to your grandfather's farm," replied Mama Field-Mouse, "that we would hate to see him harmed, yet—"

She got no further. Mr. Shrike, spying them, swooped down, and if it hadn't been for Squeedee he might have snapped up one of the field-mice. But Squeedee with his magic power bent the corn-stalk down over them and Mr. Shrike,

"Come Under This Corn-Stalk"

coming with force against it, hit his head so hard that it made a black line across his forehead. Quick as a wink Squeedee uttered something under his breath and Mr. Shrike put his claw to his head and sailed back into the woods.

"I've thought for a long time that he should be punished in some way. From now on he will be known by that black line across his forehead."

Donald and Dee were glad when Squeedee changed them back into their own size. They ran back to the house as fast as they could go.

From that day to this all shrikes have had to wear a black line across their faces.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Way Harriet Rose to Meet Her Task.

"THE children will be safely on their way to the ship," I repeated stupidly enough when Mrs. Bird had outlined her plan for the fooling of the watching detectives by the departure of two motor cars, empty, save for the drivers, down the two roads leading from her home. "But if both roads are watched by men in swift motor cars how are you going to get the children away before our cars start?"

"It will be high tide by dark," Mrs. Bird replied quietly.

"High tide! Oh!"—with sudden comprehending remembrance of the small structure half way to the bay which the driver had told me was a boat-house—"you mean they're to get away by boat."

"Exactly!" she said. "Mrs. Underwood in this note tells me that passage is all arranged on a ship, and that she herself will be out in the bay near here to-night on board a good-sized boat which will stand by ours until they both get to a landing place where your people can be transferred to the larger boat. After that it will be easy."

"But suppose"—I began, then stopped diffidently.

"That the people trailing you also think of the bay?" she said. "Well, that's a risk we have to take, but I think it's a light one. In the first place, they're not absolutely certain you're here. In the second place, they haven't had time to do much more than arrange for your trailing by auto, and besides, I don't think it would occur to most men that women would be willing to take a lot of children on a small boat into the bay. They'd figure we'd be afraid of upsetting, or afraid in the dark or—something."

That little Mrs. Bird had battled often with masculine disparagement of her courage and her ability, was easy to guess from her weary contemptuous tone. But the next second she had dismissed from her mind whatever grievance she had and she rose to her feet briskly.

All Skill Needed.

"You have a good two hours before it will be safe to start," she said. "Dinner will be ready to serve in an hour. You can get everything packed for them ready to go in that time, can you not?"

"Oh, surely!" I promised readily.

"Then I'll just help you over to the rooms with the bundles," she said, picking up the packages nearest to her. "I ought to warn you, however, that the boat will be very crowded with your six passengers."

"The bulkiest of these things are outer garments to be worn by the children," I returned, smiling. "And I can have them wear double wardrobes if necessary. Besides, one of my few accomplishments is packing for a journey."

"That's good. You'll need all your skill," she replied as we started for the rooms where I had left Dr. and Mrs. Braithwaite and the Harrison children. I paused with my hand on the doorknob.

"How much do they know?" I asked.

"Nothing save what you told them before you left," she rejoined. "Your sister-in-law said you had told her to have everything in readiness to start at any time, and she looks as if she would accomplish any task well."

"She is very efficient," I commented, and in another minute we were inside our rooms, the parcels had been deposited on chairs and tables, and Mrs. Bird was outside again.

"Is Everything All Right?"

A glance told me that Harriet, indeed, had followed instructions. The children, washed and brushed within the traditional inch of their lives, sat demurely around a small table absorbed in a game which Harriet had slipped into her suitcase. The suitcase and bags, packed save for the necessary last things, stood open at one side of the room, and Edwin and Harriet in arm-chairs where they could keep monitory eyes on the children were making a brave pretense of reading.

They both sprang to their feet as we entered, and helped us dispose of the parcels. Characteristically, they asked no questions before the children, but I signaled them into the other room, with a quick but smiling admonition to Mary to keep her brothers quiet if they wished to see the new things I had brought them.

"Is everything all right?" Harriet asked breathlessly. "We saw the car come in, and it looked as if the driver were afraid you were being followed."

"We were," I replied, and then swiftly, in as few words as possible, I told them of my trip, of Lillian's plan to send them away by boat, and of the fact that both avenues of land exit from the grounds were guarded. Harriet drew her fine eyebrows together in an anxious frown, but as I had foreseen, she rose royally above her fears, and when I had finished her only comment was:

"We've less than an hour to get those children into as many articles of clothing as they can carry, and to compress the rest of the luggage into the smallest possible space. Come, Margaret, we haven't a second to waste."

THE HOME KITCHEN

Four Novel Ways You Can 'Dress Up' Humble Vegetables

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

WHEN we get tired of serving vegetables in plain ways, we can always dress them up to make surprise dishes for special dinners. Only the best and most perfect vegetables should be used, and thought must be given when selecting them to get those of the most perfect and uniform size.

Celery Fritters.

Take the outside stalks of three or four bunches of celery, retaining the white centers for table use. Wash and scrape them and cut them into half-inch pieces, then boil them in slightly-salted water until they are tender. Drain and set them aside. Make a good fritter batter of a level cupful of flour, two level teaspoonfuls of baking-powder, two tablespoonfuls of cornflour, one tablespoonful of sugar and a saltspoonful of salt. Add the beaten yolk of an egg, the stiffly beaten white, a quarter cupful of milk and a tablespoonful of melted butter. Beat all these ingredients well together. Add the celery, the juice of an onion and a saltspoonful of curry powder. Drop the batter by spoonfuls into hot fat and fry the fritters a golden-brown. Serve them with a good cream sauce.

Baked Cauliflower.

Trim and boil a firm head of cauliflower until it is tender but not soft. Drain and cool it and slice it in thin slices. Butter a baking-dish and dust it with fine crumbs. Put in a layer of the vegetable. Dust this layer with a few fine crumbs mixed with a little grated cheese, then spread with a little cold white cream sauce. Continue in this way until the vegetable is used. Dust the top of the dish with grated cheese and dot it with butter. Add to the cauliflower a half cupful of rich milk or cream, and bake.

Mashed Parsnips.

Wash, trim and boil as many parsnips as are needed. When they are very tender drain, scrape and mash. Add pepper, salt, a little sugar, a generous lump of butter, a little rich milk or cream and one freshly-boiled and mashed potato. Put into a shallow buttered baking-dish, smooth the top, brown lightly and serve the parsnips with apple sauce and roast pork.

Potato Souffle.

Peel, wash and boil four large potatoes. When they are done drain and mash them. Add pepper, salt, butter, a gill of cream, a grating of nutmeg, three egg yolks and the beaten whites. Heap the souffle in a buttered baking-dish and bake it for about twenty minutes.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT The Insanity of Panics

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

A MAN stood on the street corner and looked fixedly down toward the ferry with an immovable expression on his face. A passing woman saw him and stopped, looking in the direction of his gaze. Other people came along and then two boys started running toward the point where the interest seemed to center, and someone called "Fire!" and there was a hurrying and scurrying such as you seldom see in a well-conducted city.

An immense crowd collected down the street, but the man who had started all the excitement walked coolly on, lighting his cigarette.

Policemen whistled and shouldered people out of the way and told them there was no fire, nothing whatever to cause the least trouble and the crowd melted away and was seen no more.

It had been nothing but an unreasoning panic, one which might have resulted in accident or sudden death, for thousands of men, women and children had run down the street uncaring for everything but the sensation they sought.

Why? Oh, Why?

One woman was carried into a shop in a fainting condition and another was hysterical, but soon the whole scene changed and everybody laughed at the wild excitement caused by one man looking down the street at nothing at all.

Panic is one of the mysterious and dangerous horrors of life. There should be a self-discipline decided upon by every one to be free from the wild fear which comes with panic. Often there is no reason for the condition and fear simply makes one half demented, all for nothing.

Every fire has its stories of men and women who rescued dolls and clocks and pillows from the flames at great danger to themselves. In a train accident a friend of mine saw a woman in scanty clothing, racing down the track, while a railway official followed her anxiously with an outspread blanket, hoping to rescue her from danger and humiliation. There was a hard race, for panic lent wings to the woman's feet and the railway man was tired before it began. At last he caught the runaway and brought her to the refuge selected for the wrecked passengers of the train.

But it is the wholesale panic which causes the greatest surprise and to an onlooker suggests that there is a universal mind, often merging into one, a whole community.

In January of this year the despatches from Mexico City reported one of these unaccountable crazes, when thousands of persons fled from the city in the belief that the capital would be destroyed by an earthquake.

Somebody had predicted that the city would be destroyed on the date of this flight. The word had spread among the people and when the day came the roads out of the city were filled with a stream of refugees, men, women and children, all in the grasp of panic.

Fear Is Inhuman

Out into the open country they poured, and for forty-eight hours there could not be made upon them the least impression. The panic had to die out of itself.

Fear is an inhuman thing. It makes of the brave and competent, silly and dangerous creatures, as anyone who has ever lived through a fire panic in a crowded structure can testify.

Fear should be routed out of the mind and in its place something sturdy and sane ought to be installed by every thinking human being.

How You May Conserve Your Ideal of Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

IT is a known fact that any of us who strive to improve ourselves mentally, morally or intellectually, must always keep before us ideals of perfection.

Unless we have a goal at which to aim we are lost, for even when we have a goal, the wisest of us know that we fall short of our aims only too often.

Do you make it a policy to have an ideal of physical perfection toward which you strive? Do you watch your weight, your complexion and the lines of your figure with this ideal in view, and try to see that they measure up to the standards of perfection which you have set for yourself?

There is so much to be said upon this general subject, for there are so many special points which it includes.

For instance, there's your hair. Just because it's yours and you see it every day, don't lose your viewpoint on the subject and forget to notice whether it's looking its usual glossy best. For your hair can become gradually dull and lifeless without your really noticing it yourself, unless you keep your ideal of perfection daily before you.

If it seems to be losing its gloss, go to work immediately to do something about it. Brisk daily brushing may be what you need. Perhaps you need a good hair tonic, and if you can consult a specialist, she may be able to advise some treatment which you can follow out yourself.

Then, too, the question of teeth is never to be overlooked. You can do your part to aid their beauty and health by brushing them with scrupulous care at least twice a day—and three times if you have the chance. But you must consult your dentist at least once every six months. The average person needs to have the dentist perform a thorough cleaning of her teeth every six months, and some need it oftener. At this time your dentist can detect any cavities that need attention.

Your complexion is very likely to be more constantly in your mind than either your hair or your teeth. For if your skin is in a bad condition, you find this more noticeable when you look in your mirror than the condition of either your teeth or your hair. You find also that it takes constant care to keep your skin soft and fine and free from blemishes. A good cleansing cream is a positive necessity, and a good skin food helps wonderfully to keep your skin moist and free from dryness in these days of dry steam heat.

Of course there are a thousand and one other points on which you must lavish constant attention and loving care. Finger-nails are not to be overlooked—and while on this subject of the smaller things that count, never fail to keep your shoes well polished and in good trim.

And all this time you must keep an eye on the ensemble, and watch the lines of the figure so they will become neither too fat nor too thin to measure up to true beauty standards.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am nineteen years old and am in love with a young man one year my senior.

I have been going with him five months and all this time he has been cool and distant toward me. But still he seems to care for no one else. One night he was at my home. As he was leaving he told me that he loved me—had loved me for a long time. But the very next day he seemed sorry he had said this. He said he had never meant to tell me.

He has moved away now. He writes, but his letters are cool. Does he really love me?

WORRIED.

WORRIED: A proposal of marriage is the only proof of love, my dear. You should think of this young man only as a friend—as one of many friends.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a married woman and have two wee little girls. I love my husband, but he doesn't seem to return my love and is very cross at times. What can I do to win his love? How can I convince him I am true to him? Should I tell him how much I love him? Please tell me what to do.

JUNIE.

JUNIE: You need not tell your husband in words how much you love him, my dear. There are so many better ways to prove this to him. If you will always be sympathetic and kind and try not to give him any cause to be cross, I am sure you will soon win his love. Keep yourself and your home as attractive as you possibly can. Good luck to you!

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens. I have been in the company of a man of forty and his sister. I am not in love with him, but enjoy his friendship and that of his sister. He seems to think a great deal of me, but his mother seems very displeased with me. Should I give up this man's friendship for the sake of his mother?

What shall I do? CANADA.

CANADA: A man of forty is not, after all, a suitable companion for a girl in her teens. If your parents approve of the friendship, there is no need for you to discontinue it, but you will be wise to devote most of your time to friends nearer your own age.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and am deeply in love with a nice young man. He says he loves me, but when he is out of my sight he goes with other girls. And he is very jealous of me. Should I keep on going with him?

BASHFUL PEGGY.

BASHFUL PEGGY: You must bear in mind that it is this young man's privilege to have as many friends as he chooses—he is not engaged to you. Of course, continue your friendship with him, but do not confine all of your time and thought to him—go out and have a happy time with your other friends, too.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

YOUR HEALTH

Take Care of a Cold to Avoid Mastoid Disease

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,

United States Senator from New York,

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

BACK of the ear is a prominence of the skull, known to the doctor as the mastoid bone. Inside this bone are a number of spaces, not unlike the cells in honeycomb. The largest space is the "mastoid antrum," which opens into the middle-ear.

The mastoid cells are of little consequence in health, but they are so located and so neighbored that their involvement in disease is serious, and may even be fatal.

I have told you that through the mastoid antrum the mastoid communicates with the middle-ear. In its turn, the middle-ear communicates with the nose through the Eustachian tube, the passageway between the nose and ear. Their relationship makes the ear susceptible to attack by way of infection of the nose.

You "catch cold." For a few days the nose "runs." The ears feel stopped up. There are occasional twinges of pain in the ear. Then the ear begins to ache and, with intermittent periods of slight relief, the trouble steadily increases.

A "gathering" forms in the middle-ear and in a day or two the drum membrane may break, permitting the discharge of a few drops, or of a considerable amount of fluid. Usually the pain ends now, and after a few days the discharge stops, the perforation heals and recovery proceeds satisfactorily.

In other cases, however, the discharge stops and the pain returns, and now it is not alone in the ear, but it is felt back of the ear as well. The symptoms grow worse and the skin over the prominence back of the ear gets red. Gradually the tissues here begin to swell. The swelling increases till the ear is pushed forward.

There are fever, restlessness, anxiety, and even delirium. The patient gives every evidence of severe illness.

Between the mastoid cells and the cavity of the skull is a layer of bone, no thicker than a half dozen sheets of paper. This is important because, as you know, the brain occupies the interior of the skull. It is unfortunate, but it is really easier for pus in the mastoid cells of a grown person to burrow through the bone into the brain, than to escape outwardly into the soft tissues behind the ear. Therefore, to protect the brain and for the lesser reasons, when the mastoid cells fill with pus an operation may be necessary to permit their drainage.

The story of how the mastoid becomes involved teaches several important lessons. The first of these is that you should lead such a hygienic life that colds are not in your catalogue.

A common cold, or influenza, should not be regarded lightly. Give yourself such considerate treatment that it will disappear speedily.

Lastly, do not neglect an earache. You need the early advice of your family doctor if the ear becomes involved. Ear-ache is not a thing to be lightly regarded. It should be attended to at once.

Answers to Health Questions

LILLIAN. Q.—Is it harmful to wet the hair each time it is combed?

2.—What should my correct weight be? I am a young girl, eighteen years of age, height five feet eleven inches?

A.—It is not advisable to wet the hair too much.

2.—For your age and height you should weigh about 150 pounds.

A. A. N. N. Z. Q.—When out doors, in the cold weather, my eyes tear. Will you kindly tell me what to do for this?

2.—Kindly advise me about ——.

A.—It may be necessary to dilate the tear duct. You should consult an eye doctor, and have him advise you whether or not this treatment is indicated.

HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

MARCH

The stellar operations for this day point to active and prosperous conditions with unusual stimulus in business and employment through the force of the excellent lunar aspects. Under this planetary spur, there should be a steady growth with advancement, increase of fortune and substantial opportunities for bettering the condition. In affectional affiliations, there may be unlooked-for or sensational development, although it may be well in this connection to beware duplicity or misrepresentation.

Those whose birthday it is are assured an interesting and eventful year with advancement and financial benefits. Generally prosperous conditions await them. A child born on this day will be clever, talented, generally successful and popular.

Today's Fashion

This Afternoon Frock Exploits Ecru Crepe and Lace.

ECRU, sand and all the kindred shades are particularly smart this season. We see them in sports costumes and in frocks of sheer material for dress occasions.

This model favors the smart ecru tone in crepe, and follows another whim of fashion in its use of lace dyed to match.

The ecru lace in this case outlines an interesting neck, which dips higher at the back, and allows tiny tabs of the lace to serve in place of sleeves. The lace reappears in frills down the side of the skirt.

SCHEDULE FOR FIRST HALF OF B. B. SEASON IS ANNOUNCED

League Directors Are Expected to Adopt it at Sunday's Meeting

Local Team Has Seven Home Games and Seven Away Before July 6

A tentative schedule for the first half of the baseball season in the Eastern Ohio League has been drawn up for the approval of the league, which is to meet Sunday afternoon. It likely will be adopted.

All games will be played on Sundays and holidays.

The league is composed of the following eight clubs: Zanesville, Newark, Barnesville, New Philadelphia, Cambridge, Mt. Vernon, Columbus and Coshocton.

Coshocton has fourteen games to play up until July 6 and seven of these games are away from home, according to the present schedule arranged.

All games postponed by rain, etc., are to be played as part of double header at the next meeting of the clubs, or to be played off as a week-day game in the city where the game was called off at option of the league.

Following is proposed schedule:

April 20—Barnesville at Zanesville, Newark at Coshocton, Columbus at New Philadelphia, Cambridge at Mt. Vernon.

April 27—Newark at New Philadelphia, Barnesville at Mt. Vernon, Coshocton at Cambridge, Columbus at Zanesville.

May 4—Cambridge at Newark, Columbus at Coshocton, Zanesville at Barnesville, Mt. Vernon at New Philadelphia.

WALSH SAYS FIVE CHAMPS MAY LOSE CROWNS THIS YEAR

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, March 24.—Having taken a poll of conjectures and opinion among the great minds gathered at the National Sports Alliance dinner last night the writer is in a position to state today that the titles of at least five fistic champions are thot to be in immediate danger. The common thot is that Joe Lynch's passing at the behest of one Abe Goldstein on Friday night last, was merely the forerunner of a stampede, Goldstein himself being included in the doubtful list.

Of the champions now holding forth, only Jack Dempsey, Harry Greb and Benny Leonard are thot to be fully capable of surviving the wear and tear of the impending outdoor season, according to those approached alst night.

Starting from the bottom and working up a la Horatio Alger, the belief is common that Pancho Villa might be divorced from his worlds flyweight title the first time he steps out with Frankie Genaro. The latter holds three decisions over Pancho the puncho and seems to be trifling with the Filipino's llama.

Goldstein does not face much competition off hand, in the bantamweight division, but the writer believes he has at least one candidate who figures to unfrock Abe if given the chance. He is Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute bantam. Carl Tremaine is also dangerous when he thinks he can win, and perhaps he may be persuaded to regard Goldstein with some degree of nonchalance. At any rate Abe's saddle, as they say at the horse show, is none to secure. Johnny Dundee is away out in front of the featherweight field at this immature moment, but John is old and several times of late has given evidence of physical decadence. Perhaps by mid-summer, some bright young man will happen along and John will pick up his crutches and hobble away among the fistic forgotten. We failed to include the name of Mickey Walker in the list of those virtually immune from danger but not because he is threatened by any man in his division. Walker stands supreme there but if he so far forgets himself as to tie up with Leonard we are not prepared to answer for the consequences. Should Benny make a serious attempt to dethrone Walker he would be favored to win, altho Mickey is no one's sap at that. Greb probably will be challenged by Jack Delaney, conqueror of Paul Berlenbach but Harry should survive. He is too tough and knows too much for Delaney.

In the light heavyweight division, Mike McTigue reigns by the grace of expedient sidestepping. He is to meet Young Stribling in Newark, next week and is a 25 to 1 shot to retain his title because under the no-decision system Stribling cannot win unless he scores a knockout. Gene Tunner is believed to be better than either man. Tom Gibbons can beat all three. That's how McTigue stands.

GIBBONS TO FIGHT CARPENTER JULY FOURTH, HE SAYS

DAYTON, March 24—Tom Gibbons, here for a leather pushing engagement with Joe Downey tonight is authority for the statement that the articles of agreement for a bout with Georges Carpentier, the idol of France, will be signed Wednesday. The scrap will take place at Michigan City, Ind., July 4.

Then Tom wants to single out "the wild bull of the pampas," Firpo, and then take another crack at Jack Dempsey.

HEIDELBERG'S COACH RESIGNS

TIFFIN, O., March 24.—Carl Eggebrecht, for three years coach and athletic director at Heidelberg university, resigned today, effective at the end of the school year. He has several offers carrying large salary increases, under consideration.

Eggebrecht's home is in Wausau, Wis.

GOLDSTEIN WINS WORLD BANTAM CHAMPIONSHIP.

By decisively defeating Joe Lynch in every round of their fifteen-round fight in Madison Square Garden, New York City, little Abe Goldstein won the world's bantamweight championship. It was the second time Lynch had lost the championship, winning it back the first time by knocking out Johnny Buff. In the action picture Lynch is shown hitting Goldstein on the chin with a left, while Abe drives in a right to the stomach.

MANAGERS OF FRAT. LEAGUE MEET TONIGHT

Plans to Re-organize to Be Discussed; Another Team May Enter

President S. J. Cardwell of the Fraternal League has called a special meeting of last season's managers of the respective teams to be held Monday night. The president has not decided just where the meeting will be held.

The meeting Monday night to a fore-runner on re-organizing the league, the president said Monday afternoon. "I believe the same lodge teams of last year will have berths in the loop this season," Mr. Cardwell said.

There is a possibility of another lodge coming in for a berth this season, he said, but that has not yet been definitely decided.

The teams will play on the Red Sea, the same as last year. All teams are expected to have a representative at the first meeting.

The interest is keen for another Fraternal League this season.

WIFE STAGES OWN MELODRAMA IN A CROWDED THEATRE

DETROIT, Mich., March 24—Sigmund Rosen, 21-year-old organist, shot three times by his wife in a crowded theatre was reported as doing well today. His wife, Ray, estranged from him for some time has almost recovered from the poison which she swallowed after firing the shots.

"I was determined no one else could have him if I couldn't," Mrs. Rosen said today. "But now that he is going to live I do not want to die."

Almost every club in the Eastern Ohio League has its roster practically completed and is waiting for the time to start the ball rolling, was the report around the loop Monday.

Directors of the Eastern Ohio League have made final preparations for the start of the season at the meeting of the league officials held at Newark yesterday afternoon.

The complete schedule for the first half was submitted and adopted. The season officially opens on Easter Sunday, April 20. Coshocton starts off at Coshocton Lake Park field with the noted Newark team. In the meantime the grounds will be put into shape and some remodeling of the grandstand and other improvements at the park will be taken care of.

Dick Johns, owner of Coshocton Lake Park will build the new addition to the grandstand and put the diamond into shape for the coming season, it was learned Monday.

A list of the umpires who hod their application on file was submitted to the directors and final adoption of the force will be made by President Scott in the near future.

The committee has not yet decided on the official ball this season. They recently rejected the bid of the Harwood ball and asked for a bid from another concern.

The Coshocton baseball club personnel is completed and they are waiting for good weather for practice.

Every club in the circuit reports great interest in the coming race and the outlook for a successful season could hardly be better. Practically every town in the league has built up its own team and it will be hard to dope out a winner this season.

OHIO POLITICS WAS DAUGHERTY'S SCHOOL SAYS SEN. BENDER

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 24—State Senator George H. Bender, Ohio manager of the Johnson presidential campaign, was on record today as declaring that "things just as irregular as have been brot to light in Washington have been put thru the Ohio legislature by the Daugherty machine. Ohio politics was the training school from which Daugherty extended his activities to national scope." Bender made his attack before the industrial girls' conference at the Y. W. C. A.

"The only remedy," he continued, "is more interest by the people in their government."

News From the Training Camp

LAKELAND, Fla., March 24.—A game between regulars and Yannigans was on the schedule for the Cleveland Indians today. Four major league opponents are to be met during the week, and Manager Tris Speaker hopes for good weather so hat the team may be in good condition when it starts north.

Pitching is the main Cleveland worry. With the exception of Uhle and Coveleskie the identity of the first string pitchers has yet to be established.

SPEAKER EXPECTS SUPERIOR BATTING TO PUT INDIANS AT HEAD OF PARADE THIS YEAR

BY NICK FLATLEY

LAKELAND, Fla., March 24.—The punch plus improved pitching is going to carry the Cleveland Indians right up to the roof if not actually on to the pinnacle, in the opinion of Manager Tris Speaker. Spoke doesn't say as much in so many words, but it is easy to see he thinks that way. His ball club was a good campaigner in 1923 and he has a better machine for the coming parade.

Speaker has a complete line up of .300 hitters he can throw into the fray. All the combination needs is fairly good chucking.

The winter trade with the Red Sox, which many an expert still considers a Cleveland bone, is satisfactory to Tris.

"I wanted a first baseman," he said, "and I have one now, a good one. Burns, in addition, is one of the best hitters in the game. I have a great utility infielder in Chick Fewster."

The Indians gave away a very good second baseman in Wambsganss but he was let out because young Riggs Stephenson was sufficiently schooled to take a regular job. Stevie has hit an average of .322 in his four years in the big show.

With Burns on first and Sewell at short the club has two chronic sluggers. The only weak sister is Letzke, at third. He's a brilliant fielder, which makes up for his batting sins. Jamieson, Speaker and Summa, the regular fly chasers, are real sluggers.

The team has a new near regular gardener in Clarke, Birmingham of the Southern League. He will serve turns with Summa in right field.

Back of the bat, the Indians will depend mostly on their two youngsters, Glenn Myatt and Luke Sewell, brother of Joe. This pair will be helped along by Al Walters, who came from Boston.

The pitching brigade will be led by Stanley Coveleskie, spitball star. He looks just as good this spring as he ever did. George Uhle should have a large year. He has the stuff and knows how now. Sherrod Smith, former Brooklyn Dodger, is back in real form, and will win a lot of games. Speaker will get a lot of help too. The port side end of things from Shaute and Edwards, two youngsters.

TODAY'S BRIGHT SPOT

Almost anyone would concede that it is most disconcerting to have a number of goats fox-trotting on a tin roof over one's head, right in the sanctity of one's own home, at that.

William Smith, of Warwood, became quite put out about goats, belonging to Nick Lewis. He had Nick arrested, and explained that the Lewis goats were in the habit of gamboling about on the Smith roof. Smith's home, he further explained, is on a hillside and is so built that the goats have access to the roof.

Not only do the goats make merry on the roof, but they have been known, Smith said, to dislodge bricks from the chimney which fell to the fireplace, much to Smith's disgust.

The technical charge is tresspassing, and signs would do no good. Everyone who reads the Sunday funnies knows that while goats may eat signs, they cannot read 'em.

DEFIANCE, March 24—Orland Yeager is walking about with the aid of a cane altho he is still suffering from a fractured skull he received New Year's day, when he fell down a flight of stairs.

LOGAN, March 24 — Edward Jones, a local confectioner, was reminded of the world war in an unusual manner several days ago. Feeling a lump on his lip, he had the lip opened by a physician and found a piece of cinder. Then he remembered that in a drive in the Argonne five years ago a heavy, high explosive shell landed near him, peppering his face with cinders.

POMEROY, March 24—Adam School is short three $50 bills because he is a tobacco chewer and keeps his fine cut and his wallet in the same hip pocket. When he withdrew his "chewin'" recently he lost the wallet and it is still missing.

ATHENS, March 24—One of the Greek letter fraternities of Ohio University threw a scare into the natives about midnight last week when they burned huge letters on a nearby hill. Thousands were awakened by the explosions attending the spectacle.

OBERLIN, March 24—George Pope of Elyria and Myron Sharp of Mansfield won first and second place in the Northwest Ohio oratorical contest held under the auspices of Oberlin College. Maumee, Port Clinton, Fostoria, Oak Harbor, Elyria, Mansfield, Medina, Amherst, and Toledo Waite High Schools participated.

ELYRIA, March 24 — Frank Kiady, ousted state "card" man, has been appointed deputy sheriff and is allowed two deputies in making unrestricted liquor raids in Lorain county. The only change from the old regime is that cases will be tried in the district where the offense is committed.

AMHERST, March 24—The St. Joseph's Catholic church breaks ground soon for the erection of a $46,000 parochial school. The new building will be of stone.

COOLVILLE, March 24—Fruit growers of Athens, Meigs, and Washington counties, meeting here, have made plans for the coming season. If weather conditions continue favorable they expect to pack and ship thousands of barrels of apples next fall.

DELAWARE, March 24—Basketball proved financially profitable at Ohio Wesleyan university this year for the first time in the history of the spot at the school. The game this year robbed up profits of more than $600. Heretofore football has paid the expenses of all other sports. The athletic association now has the largest balance in the history of the university, with receipts so far this year exceeding $25,900. Expenses of the spring sports will eat up this surplus, it is predicted.

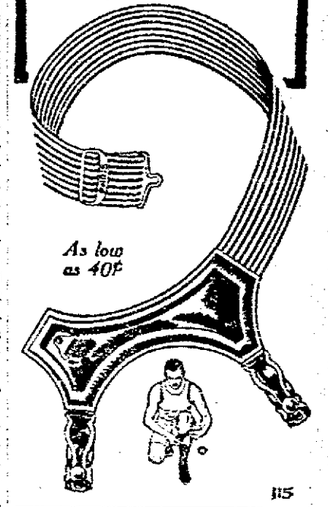

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, March 24—Use of personal property assessors in place of the ordinary method of mailing out tax returns blanks has resulted in 3,257 new taxpayers being found in Belmont county during the year the system was in use, Auditor H. G. Finley has reported. Under the old method, a tax return was mailed to each of the 12,000 tax payers, no others getting them except on application. Finley put men in the field and ordered them to search for persons who should pay taxes but were not listed to receive blanks. In one line of property alone the increase amounted to nearly $500,000.

FLUSHING, March 24—Investigation of the death of Harry Simmons, killed in an accident in the Wheeling and Lake Erie Coal Company's mine here has shown a discrepancy in the boy's actual age and that given the coal company. Simmons was only 15 years and nine months, and the company records showed him to be a year older.

Munseyfication Of The Press

FRANK A. MUNSEY has sold the New York Herald, which he bought four years ago, to Ogden Reid of the New York Tribune, who will publish the two papers as one. In his statement of the sale Mr. Munsey says it was the logical thing to do, since the papers shared the same sentiments, were in accord as to policies and occupied substantially the same field.

In commenting on this latest Munsey venture The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says: "Consolidation—he prefers the word amalgamation—seems to be an obsession with Mr. Munsey, who in the last few years has swept thru the New York evening newspaper field devouring publications right and left. He speaks of this in his latest statement with much satisfaction, dwelling upon the sound economics of the process, declaring that the same thing should be done in the morning field and acknowledging his determination to do it by recounting how he had tried to purchase the Tribune, which Mr. Reid, however, because of family tradition, would not sell. So Munsey sold when he couldn't buy.

"This process of newspaper consolidation, as is well known, is not confined to New York. It is going on all over the country. Nor is it confined to the United States. Newspaper ownership and control in England are now vested in the hands of a few men. And tho this may be most desirable from a business standpoint, as Mr. Munsey insists, it has disquieting features.

"With the press of a country owned by a few men, necessarily men of great wealth, and with interests that, broadly speaking, are parallel rather than divergent, is the public welfare likely to be as frankly, capably and comprehensively served as under genuine competition and a variety of viewpoints and ideals? That is the first consideration.

"Inseparable from it and, indeed, akin to it, is the question of the future of the newspaper profession. What manner of men will be attracted by a profession so circumscribed? Is Montague of the Manchester Guardian, for example, more of a prophet than a satirist in his latest book, 'The Hind Let Loose,' which presents the scribe serving two masters by writing editorials in support and opposition, with equal facility, in a vacuum of conviction?

"Are the Manchester Guardians of the English language on both sides of the Atlantic slowly but surely to be absorbed in the ultimate amalgam of Munseyfication? Are schools of journalism to disappear, with their reason for being destroyed? Is a free press to perish under the crushing weight of immensified personal and special-interest organs?

"Profit is, truly, a magical word, but the soul of a newspaper never did exist, and never can, in its counting room. The one and only true god of the newspaper is service and if the business of publishing constructs a temple, finally, from which that deity is driven, it requires no prevision to behold the profit-era ending in the crash of an unendurable monopoly."

"Why Poverty?"

STOUGHTON COOLEY, editor of Tax Facts, published in Los Angeles, asks, "Why Poverty?" He reflects on his own inquiry most interestingly and furnishes the rest of us food for reflection by setting forth his observations of the noble art of land speculation as it is carried on everywhere, but perhaps in its most exaggerated form in his own city. He asks:

Why be poor? Why live in the richest age and in the wealthiest country in the world, and lack for the luxuries of the flesh? Thousands of millionaires of today have made their fortunes within a few years. If one will but read the advertisements of the real estate dealers, the oil promoters, and the various other Napoleonic financiers, it would seem to be a reflection upon one's intelligence not to be rich.

A recent full page advertisement in the Los Angeles papers sets forth opportunities for easy, speedy and certain wealth that leaves no excuse for poverty.

The upper half of this page shows a profit-making machine at work. It consists of a group of factories so closely placed that the cog-wheels on the roof suggest a single unit. From the center of the group rises a huge hopper into which coins from all over the United States are pouring. From one side a spout extends over a specially marked section of land, upon which a steady stream of money is falling.

The obvious meaning of the picture is that the factories, by sending their products over the country are drawing to Los Angeles, and to this particular portion of Los Angeles, a stream of golden wealth. And the inference to be drawn, is that persons who hold title to land in that section will be enriched without any effort on their part.

But this meaning of the picture is not left to inference. The text of the advertisement removes any doubt on that score. "The great profit machine pictured above," reads the advertisement, "is already starting work for the lot owners in Easymoney Terrace." Easymoney Terrace is not the name, but it will serve to carry the idea.

The advertisement continues: "Four of these plants are now actually operating, six more now under construction will soon gear in with the first four, and additional factories are breaking ground every week."

Note the result: "Forty factories mean 6,000 well-paid jobs. Six thousand jobs mean a population of 25,000," and Easymoney Terrace, within five minutes walk of the factories, is the logical place for them to live. Indeed, units 1, 2 and 3 are already completely sold. And finally, "Many lucky buyers in these units are already re-selling for profits of 100 percent on the gross cost of their lots."

How, in the light of all this, can a poor man prove his sanity, with such opportunities flaunted in his face? Phone the company and an auto will call at your house and take you without charge to Easymoney Terrace.

True, there may be carping critics who will question the morals of this venture in finance. The manufacturers, owners and men, are putting in capital and labor. They are using every endeavor to make better and cheaper goods, they are combing the country and the world for markets, they are, in short, striving their utmost to render service for the money they receive.

But the men who buy lots in Easymoney Terrace and sell them within a few weeks or months at a profit of 100 percent, what service do they render for those profits?

The advertisement in question quotes in heavy black type these words from a successful promoter who has located "forty great industries" in an industrial tract since last July: "City land values are based on two equally important factors—population and wealth—buy your lots with this in mind."

Who will question the truth of that statement? But note that this rule applies only to land values. No amount of wealth or population adds to labor or capital values. The house, the auto, the sewing machine once built begin to decline in value as they age, in spite of any increase in the population and wealth of the community. But the lots in Easymoney Terrace, and in the various other tracts do increase in value with the growth of wealth and population.

This increase is not even or constant. Sometimes it is in one place, and then in another. Some may even decrease temporarily. But the tendency is always to rise. Small investors taken as a whole do not make interest on their money, but the gambling chance of big profits lures them on, so that more than half of the land of the city lies vacant and idle, while labor and capital support the community on the land in use.

New York Day-by-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 24.—A page from the diary of a modern and Pepys: Back up and came word of an old work fellow Brown Holmes is dead in California and sad news albeit I have come to be here grief for those who pass from—that is selfish for if life were not endless it would be a futile thing.

So to lunch with R. Valentino, the cinema player who is all enthusiasm for a new jumping type he is making and thence to labor all the afternoon with few interruptions for which the Lord be thanked.

In the late afternoon to join some roysterers in Grove street and William Slavens McNutt and Ray Long there and much rag tag and bobtail and later to the opening of the Green Room Club's new building and I staid until 2 in the morning, a foolish thing to do. So to bed.

The chief aim of the average New Yorker is to achieve what is known as smartness. For the young girl it means bright patter about Russian plays, exquisitely polished nail, trapeze earrings and a rather stupid rudeness. For the young man it means bright sox, tea wagon wise cracks, a nonexistent superiority for ordinary things of life and a velvet hair. Mother must bob her hair into a state of negroid frizziness and know the latest dance step. Only father appears to retain sober sanity. He dangles rather helplessly on the sidelines, looking on, paying the bills and perhaps wondering what it is all about.

Bob Davis, the magazine editor, who is skilled in finding literary gold among the dross, was recently in California. While there he met a very modest young writer who had enriched literature with a single short story in a not too prominent magazine. The burden appeared to me to rest heavily on frail shoulders.

What [illegible] Mr. Davis [illegible] the eastern press [illegible] writer?

[illegible] was the sober reply.

A heavy rain was drenching downtown New York and a high wind was blowing a furious gale. The pedestrians who sought shelter under the protecting arches of Brooklyn Bridge huddled together like sheep. Now and then there was a forked flash of lightning and a crash of thunder. A man mounted an abandoned box and started to pray. Men removed their hats. It was a rather dramatic touch in a city of confusion.

Each Tuesday there is a luncheon of an organization known as The Woman Pays Club. Only women who earn their own livelihood in one of the arts is eligible for membership. She must have qualified as being self-supporting either as a writer, an actress, a musician or in some artistic branch.

A little five-year-old boy friend of mine has just toddled up to my typewriter and inquired "What are you doing?" I tried to explain I was writing something I hoped people might read. "What do they read it for?" he insisted. It takes a precious child like that to completely stump you. He has asked a question that has puzzled thousands including myself.

The same little boy has a father who writes best selling novels. I asked him if when he grew up he would be a great novelist like his illustrious parent. "No," he replied very gravely. "I'm going to work."

Nothing interests me so much in a private home as one of those private aquariums—a huge tank of greenish water holding fishes and similar things. I was waiting for a man the other day and became so engrossed that when I turned around there was the man in a sky blue dressing gown watching me poking at the fish with a lead pencil. Business of turning a brick red and laughing falsetto.

As a measure of economy steel posts are being used instead of wooden props in German coal mines.

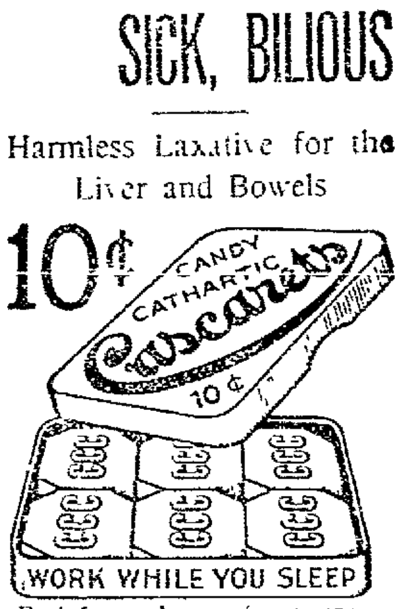

WALT MASON

PREPAREDNESS

Some day the luck is bound to break, misfortunes will arrive, and then the man who has a stake in comfort will survive. Two men were fired from Dingus's store a week ago today. I see them drift past my door and taking home no pay. And one of them, James McSkate, put up an anguished howl; he wailed the bitter fate that robbed him of his job. "All I have no wolf to care, when children cry for bread and my nurses will surely starve since I was fired," he said. "Misfortune like a bitter frown has placed him in the hole and he is no kopecks salted down against the day of cold." The other gent, Charles B. McQuest, was happy as could be: "I long have hankered for a rest, a holiday," quoth he. "And now I'll surely take my ease, a trouble-free guest, and rest beneath my own vine trees with pipe and hound-dog. While in the Dingbat store I slaved, I salted down the dough, an ample bundle I have saved to last twelve years or so. I'll then let the stricken dingers weep, the dart put up a wail; mere dollars I'll keep, because I have the kale. When dire misfortune stalks abroad to pick men's purse again, there's nothing like a kelly wad to brace the hearts of men."

PEOPLES' FORUM

WARSAW STILL ON THE MAP

Editor The Tribune:

Well, Mr. unworthy Mayor of Warsaw, how did you get that way?

Your reply to my spilling of the beans, is indeed in part, one I would like to have some one analyze. You say I would add to my credit tho honesty I can't see the point, if I would make myself aware of the fact that any person can put away any amount of cider he chooses, for the purpose of making vinegar. Now if that is true, why is a man arrested when one gallon is found? If it had been one barrel or six and just say it was for vinegar he'd have come out scott free would he? I'm well aware your average good citizen and farmers galore have a perfectly good chance to become full blown Ananiases, drink it every day and what's more, meet a friend in town, say come up, I'll give you something to drink. Respectable? Yes, and according to you, he can have it, is within the law. If the officers should raid his cellar all he has to do is to say, Oh, that is my cider for vinegar.

Bah! Such rottenness.

I never intimated such a thing that because a man was a Presbyterian that he be debarred of any kind of rights and I agree as you say, he is just as good as any man, if he behaves himself.

If Warsaw women are in earnest about having a drive to dry up Warsaw 'twas stated to be the purpose by your reporter, why do you stop? Even if the scent leads to the best homes and the church doors? As the matter now stands it looks to me the little spurt and stir was merely a matter of spite work.

Yes my authority is good. If you and your marshal didn't see sonny, I can't help it.

They haven't it now. They expected what never happened. The wicked flee when no man pursueth. Yes, we have no cider to day.

I agree with you again when you so graciously hand over the compliment of Laughlin being far superior to you in legal ability. He knew of course or at least his deputy found in the books that the law had been cracked.

But who beside yourself will affirm that Squire Laughlin has a deep sense of honor and justice? If true let him hand back $150 of the fine of Donald Saunders or all of the $200 if you are correct in saying a man can store away all he pleases just so he says it's for vinegar. Sanders wasn't bright, was he to plead guilty? But then he's honest and that is lots to me. The same.

GREAT PRICE DECLINE

Editor The Tribune:

Proof of the famous shrinkage that has taken place in the value of agricultural products since 1919, notwithstanding the enactment of the "farmers' tariff" and the Fordney-McCumber law is presented in the preliminary estimates for 1923 just published by Secretary Wallace. The Secretary's figures show that crops of all kinds and livestock and livestock products in 1923 were worth about $7,000,000,000 less than those in 1919.

It is pointed out that some of the agricultural products which were on the "free list" in 1919 and which were subsequently "protected" by heavy duties imposed by the special tariff of 1921 and the present Fordney-McCumber Act show the heaviest decline in values in the five years covered by Secretary Wallace's report.

Among the principal agricultural items that were on the "free list" in 1919 when the Democratic Underwood-Simmons act was in effect were wool, wheat and flour, corn, live poultry, eggs, cattle, swine and most fruits. That the Republican tariff has been of no efficacy in maintaining the prices of these products is made obvious by Secretary Wallace's statistics.

The wool crop of 1919 was valued at $128,000,000 compared with $87,000,000 in 1923. The other crops and products on the free list in 1919 and "protected" in 1923 were valued in these two years as follows: Wheat $2,05?,000,000 in 1919 and $726,000,000 in 1923; corn, $3,781,000,000 in 1919 and $2,222,000,000 in 1923; poultry and poultry products $1,100,000,000 in 1919 and $1,047,000,000 in 1923; cattle, $1,578,000,000 in 1919, and $924,000,000 in 1923; swine, $2,230,000,000 in 1919, and $1,145,000,000 in 1923; and fruits, $755,000,000 in 1919, and $681,000,000 in 1923.

Compared with 1920, the last full year of the Wilson administration, the value of crops and livestock for 1923 shows a decrease of nearly $2,500,000,000. And 1920 was the year in which the high prices caused by the war had begun to subside.

News of the day as told by the Camera

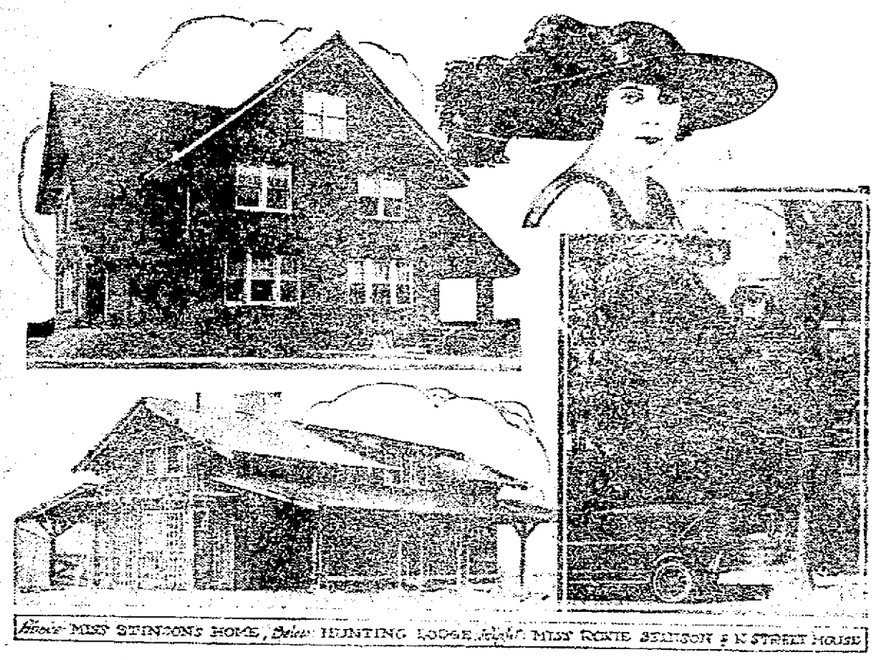

MEN AND WOMEN IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Below: KING ALBERT, MRS. CHRISTOBEL RUSSELL & AL. JENNINGS.

Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, declared in a speech at Lewisburg, Pa., that Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty "had no proper place in the Cabinet." Mrs. Christobel Russell, divorced wife of the Hon. John Hughes Russell, has appealed to the House of Lords for the legitimacy of her son and his heirship to the Barony of Amphill. Her former husband denies the paternity of the baby, known as the "dream child." Winston Spencer Churchill has been defeated for the third time in his effort to secure re-election to the British Parliament. King Albert of Belgium declined to permit the Chamber of Deputies to increase his allowance. John D. Rockefeller is the best pleased man in America as a result of holing a 21-foot putt for a par three on the Ormond Beach, Fla., golf links, despite rain and clicking motion picture cameras. Al Jennings, one-time train bandit, was summoned before the Senate Investigating Committee to tell what he knew of alleged deals engineered by the late Jake Hamon to deliver the Republican nomination in 1920 to someone willing to allow the oil interests to name his Secretary of the Interior.

MEN AND WOMEN WHO FIGURE IN DAY'S NEWS.

Below: OGDEN REID, ANNA BALAI & WASSILI WAREMCHICK.

Wassili Waremchick, 35, native of Vilna, Russia, has emotionally confessed four murders because his common-law wife, Anna Balai, stole his life savings of $2,500 and ran away with another man. Believing Stephen Klubeck aided in her flight, he set fire to a New York City tenement in which Klubeck lived. Klubeck, his wife and their two children perished and scores of others had narrow escapes. Acting, it is said, on hints from the German Government that he has worn out his welcome, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire slacker, is negotiating for his return to America to finish his prison sentence and recover his property. King George of Greece, exiled in Rumania, is said to have agreed upon terms by which he will voluntarily abdicate. Frank A. Munsey, proprietor of several New York City newspapers, has sold the New York Herald to Ogden Reid, owner of the New York Tribune, for a sum said to be $4,000,000. The papers will be merged under the name New York Herald-Tribune.

SLAYING OF WOMAN IS DEEP MYSTERY.

DR. ZEO ZOE WILKINS.

Deep mystery surrounds the murder in Kansas City, Mo., of Dr. Zeo Zoe Wilkins, six times a bride, whose body was found in her home there.

WIFE OF DOT KING'S FRIEND ARRESTED.

MRS. A. E. GUIMARES

On suspicion that she is the stylishly-dressed bobbed-haired bandit who has been "sticking up" New York and Brooklyn stores at the point of a pistol, Mrs. A. E. Guimares has been arrested in New York City. Mrs. Guimares denied her guilt. She is the wife of A. E. Guimares, who came into national prominence as the recipient of rich presents from Dorothy King, New York's butterfly girl, who was found later murdered in her luxurious apartment. Guimares is now serving a three-year sentence in the Federal Prison in Atlanta, Ga., for using the mails to defraud.

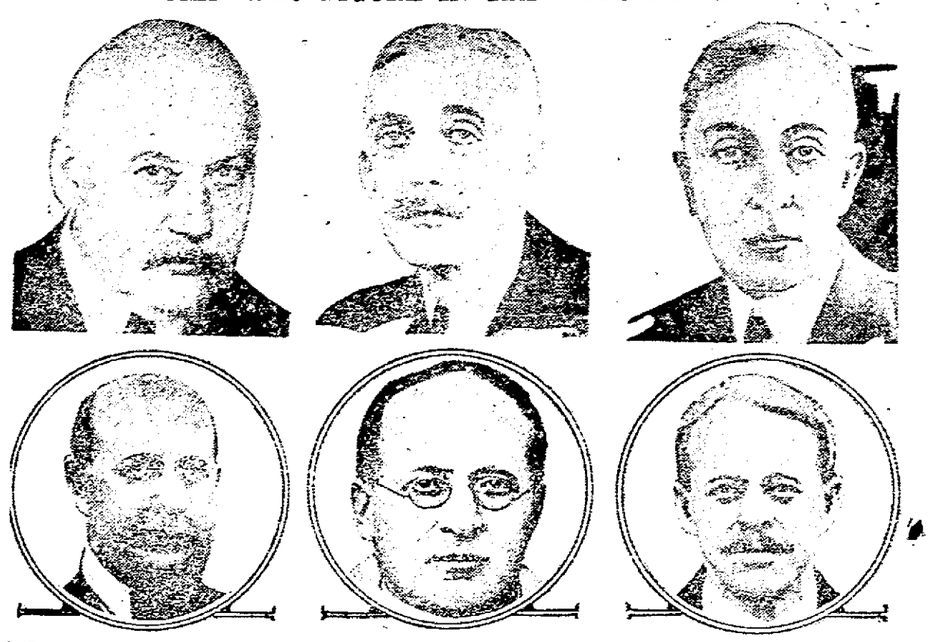

CALLED ONE OF FIFTEEN PRETTIEST.

MISS FAYE MARTYN.

Miss Faye Martyn, of Waterloo, Iowa, has been selected by Professor Ernest Lindenkamp, internationally known painter, as one of the fifteen most beautiful women in America.

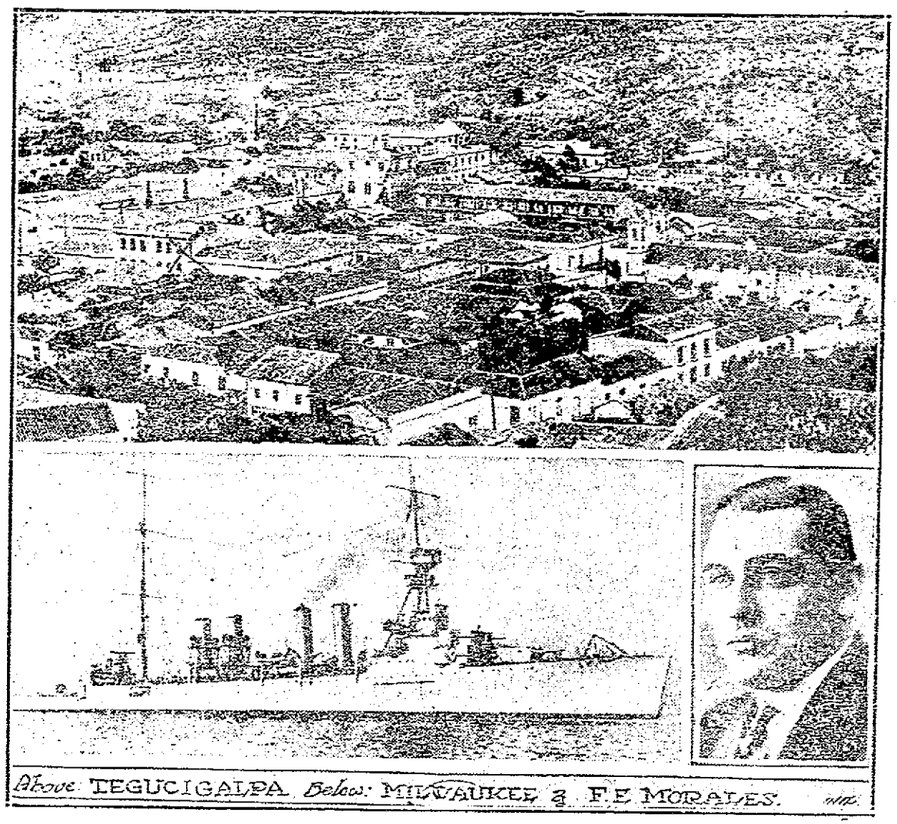

MEN WHO FIGURE IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

Above: JOHN W. WEEKS, ANDREW J. MELLON & BASCOM SLEMP.
Below: ROY HAYNES, POPE PIUS XI & WILLIAM R. GREEN.

Pope Pius XI. has been emphatic in his denial of reports that he is suffering from arterio sclerosis and that his physicians are worried. The Senate Committee, investigating the actions of Attorney General H. M. Daugherty, summoned Secretary of War John W. Weeks and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew J. Mellon for questioning. Prohibition Commissioner Roy Haynes also was called. C. Bascom Slemp, President Coolidge's private secretary, was shown to have traded in oil stocks in 1922 and 1923, while still a member of Congress, but before he was attached to President Coolidge. He declared the oil deal was for a cousin. Congressman William R. Green, of Iowa, has been successful in putting his soldier bonus bill through the House of Representatives by a big majority.

AMERICAN FORCES LANDED IN HONDURAS.

Above: TEGUCIGALPA. Below: MILWAUKEE & F. E. MORALES.

Nine officers and 107 sailors and marines from the U. S. S. Milwaukee have been thrown ashore at Amapala, Honduras, and sent to Tegucigalpa, the capital, at the request of American Minister Franklin E. Morales. They will guard the legations and consular offices, which had been fired upon by drunken soldiers. Tegucigalpa has been captured by rebels and many innocent persons are reported shot down. Foreign residents sought protection in the American Legation.

PRINCIPAL FIGURES IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Above: MYRON T. HERRICK, DR. OTTO WIEDFELDT & WILL HAYS
Below: RICHARD MULCAHY, WILLIAM J. BRYAN & DR. SOLF.

Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, German Ambassador to the United States, is preparing to return home. His place will be filled by Dr. Solf, now German Ambassador to Japan. By throwing $200,000 on the market in a lump sum, buying an equivalent sum in francs, Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France, is said to have greatly aided in stabilizing the French franc, and to have made 1,500,000 francs to be applied to the purchase of an American Legation in Paris. Will Hays, Czar of the movies, was summoned to appear before a Senatorial investigating committee to be asked concerning an alleged gift of 75,000 shares of Sinclair Consolidated by Harry F. Sinclair to make up a deficit in the Republican campaign funds. Richard Mulcahy, Minister of Defense and head of the Irish Free State Army, has resigned following a mutiny of officers. Spending his birthday in his former home in Lincoln, Neb., William J. Bryan denied he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, but declares he will run if "drafted."
